MESSAGE FROM THE PRESIDENT

Over the years, I have thought a lot about the parable of the good Samaritan. It is a story about a man traveling the road to Jericho. He is attacked by robbers and left for dead on the road. A priest and a Levite, people with special callings to assist the needy, passed and didn't attempt to help. But a Samaritan, a class of person that in general was despised by the majority, stopped to help and went above and beyond in caring for the fallen traveler.

Why would the priest and Levite pass by and not help? Was it inconvenient for them? Did they have a meeting to make?

To me the moral of this story is that there are times when we need to serve, going beyond the minimum and doing so in times of inconvenience.

In 1990, President George H.W. Bush founded Points of Light to promote volunteerism in America. In one his last public acts, President Barack Obama called for Americans to volunteer and expanded AmeriCorps, a federal volunteer service group of more than 75,000 Americans.

In this time of seemingly unrelenting political intransigence, the importance of volunteerism to American society has transcended both time and partisan politics.

Volunteers manage and operate more than 80 percent of charitable nonprofits. In a typical year, volunteers give about eight billion hours of labor and add about $200 billion of value to communities throughout our nation.

Rotary opens opportunities to serve in many ways—Santa Clothes, reading to underprivileged children, supporting our international programs, vocational service or many other ways. You can often tailor your contributions of time and money to what suits your talents and passion.

Sometimes we need your help in a specific way. You may be asked to help because no one else is in a position to assist but you. Sometimes we need many volunteers and we're having trouble finding them.

Sometimes you may feel like saying "no" because the ask is inconvenient. Like the Good Samaritan, I invite you to assist when asked or accept the call to serve even if you feel you may not be up to the task. My experience has taught me that somehow when I feel inadequate for the task but have an opportunity to do good, the difference is made up. Things work out and I feel great about helping as called. There is a type of magic that helps us in doing good.

As Rotarians, let's take the opportunities to serve and resolve to open our hearts to others and "go, and do" even when inconvenient as the Samaritan did.

Mike

WALT PARRISH'S SERVICE TO ROTARY

Walt Parrish - 1937-2021

For more than 40 years, Walt Parrish participated enthusiastically in many local and international Rotary projects and events. In his retirement Walt dedicated his rotary efforts to teaching solar cooking and water pasteurization. To this end Walt and his wife Diane participated in multiple Rotary sponsored solar cooking projects in Central America, South America, and Africa. He was committed to education and attended many Rotary International conventions speaking to his fellow Rotarians about the benefits Solar Cooking.

In addition he was a frequent Guest Speaker at Rotary clubs, schools and religious centers all across the US. Walt reached out and involved many Rotary sponsored high school and college clubs (interact and rotoract) in this project. Under his direction, more than 12,000 WAPIs (water pasteurization instruments) were produced and distributed to families, schools and hospitals through out the Third World. To many Rotarians he was lovingly known as the WAPI Man.
